The Stillwater River. Wolf Creek . Mad River. The Great Miami River. How many cities can boast four waterways traverse their downtown? Dayton’s rivers and creeks are the lifeblood of the region, linking neighborhoods, lending a dramatic backdrop for downtown events, and drawing people to the river for outdoor recreational activities. Learn about The Dayton Riverfront Plan and the overall framework for the greater downtown area and river corridors as well as conceptual designs to improve ten riverfront parks and connect into the regional paved trail network.
